CONGRESS IS BUSY AFTER THE RECESS

Senators and Representatives Renew Labors With Energy Following Christmas Vacation.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 5.—Congress assembled today after the holiday recess. Busy times are ahead for both senators and representatives for it is the plan of the leaders in both branches to keep the legislative mill grinding at full speed from now until the end of the session. In order to push the work through it is probable that evening sessions will be held. It is the intention of the Republican managers in both houses to attempt to make a record at this session and not merely be content with the passage of the appropriation measures. In their desire to accomplish as much as possible before the session ends the Republicans are governed by political considerations. The presidential campaign of 1912 is already opened so far as Washington is concerned and the closing session of the Republican congress before the nomination is made is relied on to help the party when the campaign is formally opened. A good record of bills passed is naturally counted upon to help the candidates in their appeals to the country.

HONORS PAID TO CHARLES SUMNER

FRIDAY IS CENTENNIAL OF BIRTH OF GREAT PATRIOT.

SCHOLAR AND STATESMAN

He Was One Of Leaders Of Abolition Movement At Its First Incitation.

Special To The Gazette. Boston, Mass., Jan. 5.—Eighteen hundred and eleven was the natal year of many Americans who were destined to win distinction, some of whom established a reputation which extended beyond their own country into Europe. Of these notable Americans whose centenaries will be celebrated during the present year, the three of widest reputation are Charles Sumner, Horace Greeley and Wendell Phillips all natives of New England.

The first of the centenaries will come tomorrow, which will be the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Charles Sumner, who has been classed among America's greatest statesmen. Born in Boston, Jan. 6, 1811, Sumner became a graduate of Harvard in 1830.

The next year he entered the Harvard law school, where he studied under the renowned Judge Joseph Story. He spent the years from 1837 to 1840 abroad, studying in London, Berlin, Paris and other European centers, and becoming acquainted with the leading public men of Europe. His studies and tastes led him toward politics and the law. He became interested very early in the anti-slavery movement. On Nov. 6, 1839, in Faneuil Hall, soon after the passage of the fugitive slave law, he delivered a speech on that subject which led to his election to the United States Senate.

In the Senate it was with difficulty that Sumner found an opportunity to speak on his "one idea." On Aug. 26, 1852, he made his celebrated speech for the "Trepid of the Fugitive Slave Law." In 1856 he delivered his speech in the Senate on "The Crime Against Kansas," the speech for which he was assaulted by Senator Brooks. For four years thereafter Sumner was absent from his seat in the Senate. He returned in 1860, and in the notable session of that and the following year he was a strong opponent to any form of compromise.

In other phases of Sumner's public career he filled an important place in the history of his country. But these have almost been forgotten in the light of his career as an anti-slavery advocate and statesman. From 1861 to 1872 he was chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, and in that position he contributed materially to the literature of international law. His great speech on the "Trent Affair" delivered in the Senate in 1862, is classed among his ablest productions.

When the war was concluded Sumner ardently supported the policy of reconciliation and amnesty. His death occurred in Washington, March 11, 1874.

The New England Suffrage League and various other organizations of Boston have made elaborate preparations for the observance of the Sumner centenary. Beginning with a meeting in Faneuil Hall tonight, with Archbishop O'Connell and other noted men as speakers, the celebration will be continued over tomorrow. A feature of tomorrow's program will be the memorial exercises at the Bowdoin School, which stands on the site where Sumner was born.

TO BE OBSERVED IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 5.—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has completed arrangements for the celebration in this city in honor of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Charles Sumner. Under the auspices of the association public exercises will be held tomorrow night in the meeting house of the Ethical Culture Society. The principal address will be delivered by Moorefield Storey, leader of the Massachusetts bar, who was Senator Sumner's private secretary.

CONGRESS OPENS; LORIMER CASE UP

Senator Owen Plans to Offer
Outing Resolution.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS PLANNED

Fortification of Panama Canal Among Measures to Receive Attention—
Appropriation Measures and Other Legislation Planned.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Senators and representatives are returning to Washington from their holiday vacation, and everything was in readiness for the session of congress today when the lawmakers will resume business after a two week's recess. All signs now point to a lively time for the remainder of the session. The house and the senate began business on the double quick in the three weeks that preceded the Christmas recess, and it is certain now that there will be time for the consideration of several measures besides the regular appropriation bills.

Five propositions loom up on the legislative horizon. The Lorimer case probably will attract the most attention from the public. Then there is the proposition to fortify the Panama canal. Next comes the resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution providing for the election of United States senators by popular vote of the people.

There is bound to be a lot of discussion over the recommendation of the administration for the creation of a tariff board. The indications that the appointment will stir up more or less excitement owing to the disposition of New York Republicans and others to insist that action on this measure be deferred until next winter.

There are other questions of minor interest that will have consideration by congress. Among them may be mentioned the bill providing for the addition of ocean carrying between the United States and ports of South America. It is probable that an effort will be made to bring up the Halting-Pinchot case. The Republican insurgents are getting restive and there have been conferences among them that augur ill for the peace of mind of the regular leadership.

The Lorimer case will probably engage the attention of the senate at intervals for many days. Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, will start the ball rolling today. He announced that he would address the senate in opposition to Lorimer, and present a resolution declaring the election of Lorimer to be null and void.

Senator Lorimer had planned to leave Washington for the south, but when he learned that the fight to declare his title to his seat invalid was likely to be precipitated in the senate today he hastily changed his plans and decided to remain over.

This is the form of the resolution to be introduced by Senator Owen: "Resolved, that the so-called election of William Lorimer, on May 26, 1909, by the legislature of Illinois was illegal and void."

Senator Owen will declare that the senate should stand upon the ethical rule that no election of a senator shown to have been based in any degree upon bribery or corruption should be allowed to stand.

It is now pretty generally known that the administration views with alarm the probability of Mr. Lorimer remaining in the senate with the credentials that he presented a year ago. President Taft is punctilious in his observance of the proprieties and will not openly interfere. An ugly situation is developing in connection with the Lorimer affair.

The Cure.
Professor W. E. Grange, author of the "History of Primitive Love," alluded in the course of a lecture in Boston to the modern cynical view of love that prevails; "I remember once hearing a bricklayer and a plumber discuss love. 'I hold,' said the bricklayer, 'that if you are terribly in love the way to cure yourself is to run away.' The plumber shook his head and answered, 'That will cure you,' he said, 'provided you run away with the girl.'"

CAR ON "L" ROAD AFIRE

Firemen Fight Blaze 125 Feet

Thirty Passengers in a New York Elevated Train Flee for Their Lives from Flames.

New York, Jan. 5.—Fire which broke out in a middle car of a speeding "L" train at the highest point of the Ninth avenue elevated railroad furnished an unusual spectacle for uptown New York. The car was of the old wooden pattern and burned like tinder.

About thirty passengers fled to the rear end of the train in a panic as the grinding brakes jolted the cars to a stop. The motorman, the guards and the passengers left the car to its fate and crawled over the slender trestle, 125 feet above the street, to the nearest station.

Firemen who arrived on the scene a few minutes later pulled long lines of hose up the stairway of the station and along the tracks to the stalled train. They were half an hour extinguishing the flames, and the car in which the fire started was completely destroyed.

Eight Members of Company, En Tour,
Suffering With LaGrippe or Pneumonia in Indiana City.

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 5.—When the company presenting the musical comedy "Miss Nobody From Star Land" left Lafayette after a performance at the Droylus theater, eight of its members were unable to go. All are suffering with attacks of grip or pneumonia.

The illness of the members began on Sunday in Terre Haute, when Miss Olive Vail, who heads the company, was stricken with pneumonia and was unable to appear. Miss Vail came to Lafayette, however, and when she reached the hotel here she was compelled to call a doctor.

Her understudy was also taken ill and six members of the chorus, four young women and two men, were stricken with the grip. Substitutes were found for the principal roles and the performance was given. Miss Vail's condition is said to be serious.

Clinton, Dec. 5.—James Selkirk of Dubuque, Iowa was here yesterday calling on old friends and neighbors.

A party of boys from Beloit were in town last night playing "huro and hounds." It was pretty cold weather for the game but they did not seem to notice it so enthusiastically were they.

The annual meeting of the church and society of the Congregational church was held this afternoon, and the annual reunion will be held this evening at the church.

The remains of Mrs. Margaret Ackley were interred at Fairfield instead of Clinton as reported.

Mrs. E. H. Klizer made a hurried trip to Rockford and Peatonica yesterday, returning this evening.

Prof. Burr of Beloit will occupy the Congregational pulpit Sunday.

Word has been received from Mrs. F. Clifford Schaffer saying they had reached Havana, Cuba, safely and were not sea-sick while on the water. The weather was delightful and they are having a good time.

It is claimed that for an insignificant amount of money our city gas plant can be altered to use crude oil instead of 87 per cent gasoline to generate our gas, thus reducing the cost very materially to the consumer. Let us hope it is true and practical and that our city fathers will install the necessary change at once.

Our newly elected officer, Marshal Itelmer, is making good and it is steadily being impressed upon those inclined to be unruly that he is not in office as an ornament.

HOW THEY DO IT IN NEW YORK.

This is the season of the year when every man who has property is interested in taxes, and many people whose consciences are so acute that they would be shocked beyond expression at a salome performance, exhaust every effort to crawl under the tent when the assessor shows up on his annual tour.

The spirit of self-preservation is never quite so pronounced as at tax time and this spirit is not confined to the west, as will be noticed by a few examples in New York City, brought to the surface by a writer in the American Magazine, who says:

"In using some of our representative rich men for illustrations, we have no blame for them from the legal point of view. They are playing the tax game according to the rules; and the only point we want to make is that the rules are bad and ought to be improved. To us, those men are simply conspicuous beneficiaries of a vicious system reared on an impossible theory of taxation.

"As such, and only such, we mention them. J. Pierpont Morgan eludes in rather handsomely on a resident assessment of $400,000. Mr. Ryan on $100,000. When you consider that the law could not perform collect 35 cents from either of them, it must be said that they do pretty well. The hat was passed to W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., in 1910, with the suggestion that an assessment of $500,000 would be about right. Mr. Vanderbilt did not see it that way; so he gave his legal residence on Great Neck, L. I., where the assessors only asked for returns on $100,000.

"Payno Whitney, too, has a place of 531 acres at Manhasset, L. I., estimated at $101,500. His property at 972 Fifth avenue is reckoned at $550,000—total $651,500—and his personal property is assessed at $25,000. How do you suppose he keeps the repairs up? Mrs. Anna Weightman Penfold, said to be the richest woman in the world, lives at 787 Fifth avenue, and her property is assessed at $1,200,000—and she pays a 'non-resident' personal property assessment of $8,000.

"How far would $8,000 go in furniture alone for a house costing $1,200,000? Robert Goebel lives at 591 Fifth avenue. His house is rated at $300,000, and his personal assessment in New York is only $6,000. A white elephant is a whiff of such misfortune as this.

"William F. Havemeyer, legally 'resident' in New Jersey, has a very good house at 10 East 57th street, just off Fifth avenue, appraised at $150,000, and has no personal property at all. Otto H. Kahn, ditto New Jersey, lives at 8 East 68th street, four doors from Fifth avenue, and his home is estimated at $165,000, and he has nothing. He was assessed at $50,000, but convinced the tax department that he was more interested in other forms of charity.

"The whole personal tax receipts of New York City barely reach 2 1/2 per cent of the city's income. The whole personal tax receipts of the state are less than 3 1/2 of the state's income. Now, out of this 3 1/2 deduct the one-fifth that is paid by estates—paid by the dead hand of men who, when alive, struggled hard to leave their families provided for. Then deduct from the remainder of the amount paid by the poor, the small trader, by widows and wards, and you will find that the balance, the amount paid by corporations and by rich men, taken together, doesn't come to carfare.

"What can be done? Two things are possible. First, tighten up the law so that it would really bear a proportionate pressure on the rich man. This has been tried and tried again, and the last trials are the least successful. If any one can succeed in devising such a law, he will go down to posterity ahead of Newton and Christopher Columbus.

"A former tax commissioner once laid down four things that had to be done before a satisfactory personal tax law could be constructed: Amend the constitution of the several states. Amend the constitution of the United States. Amend the constitution of human nature. Amend the constitution of things. If anyone would like to take that contract, I am sure he is just the man that the New York tax commissioners want to see."

The writer finds that Andrew Carnegie pays a tax on $5,000,000 worth of personal property, while he gives away two or three times that amount every year without breaking into his principle.

Many of these wealthy people are noted as philanthropists, but it is an open question whether justice is not more commendable than generosity.

MEDICAL FREEDOM.

The National League for Medical Freedom, less than a year old, has 155,000 members, and is growing rapidly every day. It has branches in fifteen states (two in California with a membership of 18,500), and new branches are being organized in other states. The Wisconsin division has a membership of 2,250, although organized less than a month.

The Wisconsin headquarters is at Suite 816 Mulestad building, Milwaukee, where information regarding the League may be had free of charge. The league wants freedom in the choice of a practitioner, and is formed to oppose any legislation its members believe to be intended to abridge their rights. It is opposed to no school of medicine, members of all schools of the healing art, medical and otherwise, being in its membership.

The following well known citizens are among the members of the advisory board:

Lieut. Gov. John Strange, Menasha; E. P. Arpin, Grand Rapids; Judge George Grimm, Jefferson; P. H. Swift, William C. Stone, Watertown; Frederick Weinbagen, Herman E. Franko, Arthur N. McGeech, George H. Smith, C. W. L. Kasumba, Milwaukee; A. J. Haugan, Elkhorn.

This information is sent out by the Wisconsin branch of the National League for Medical Freedom. The popularity of the new movement is attested by the rapidly with which the ranks are filling up.

"It is a movement in the right direction for the day has passed when intelligent people will submit to censorship or medical dictation. The fact is generally recognized today that the normal body is equipped for the journey of life, and barring accident, should live out allotted time without the aid of the drug habit.

Another fact is rapidly dawning upon intelligent minds, and that is that the mind is more frequently diseased than the body, and hence modern schools of healing deal more largely with the nerves than with the stomach.

The Christian Science healer inspires faith, and with the mind at rest, nature comes to the relief of the sufferer and performs the cure.

The osteopath goes after the nerve centers, and attempts to keep the circulation of the body normal without the use of drugs. How well the science succeeds is a matter of current history.

These two schools are the bane of the medical profession, and the latter has had to fight for a foothold in every state in the union, while the former is ridiculed and maligned, and occasionally haled in court, when a case is lost, regardless of the fact that people have been known to die under medical treatment.

The National League of Medical Freedom is organized to contest the claims of the American Medical association, and to checkmate the political movement now under way to establish a National Department of Health in the interests of the dear people in general and the medical profession in particular.

The men at the head of the league, and the men associated with them, are men of character and stability. They argue that some rights are too sacred for outside interference, among them religion, politics, and the choice of a healer, or school of healers, in time of sickness.

They regard the proposed federal health board as pernicious and, uncalculated for, encouraging a medical monopoly by establishing a censorship which the people neither need nor want.

This league is not organized for the purpose of antagonizing any school of medicine, but is solely for educational and defensive purposes. Its membership contains homeopaths, osteopaths, allopaths, Christian Scientists, eclectics and others.

It is not a money-making organization but is supported by voluntary offerings from its friends. The movement appeals to common sense and is entitled to success.

Senator Cummins of Iowa wants the people of his state to express their choice for president, at a primary election. He is willing to be a candidate, but wants to make sure of the home endorsement. The "stand pat" element in the party is not friendly to him, and should the legislature elect Senator "Lafe" Young to be his own successor, it would be a damper on Cummins' ambition.

Why don't the county board pay the sheriff a decent salary and then allow him what it costs to board the prisoners. A hotel which is obliged to run on a fixed income regardless of the number of patrons, may look like a fair proposition, but the proposition is destitute of the first principles of business or common sense.

It is estimated that poor roads cost the people of the country $300,000,000 a year. In most cases it costs the farmer more to haul his products to the way station than the freight charges by rail to market. He is obliged to pay the latter, but the former can be materially reduced, by intelligent road-building.

The state of Wisconsin has 42 people to the square mile, while Texas has but 14. A number of the western states average less than 5. Rhode Island stands at the head of the list with 508. The cities of the United States contain 25,000,000 people, nearly one third of the population.

Lawyer Brandeis of Boston still contends that the railroads of the country are wasting a million dollars a day by bad management. It might be a good scheme for the companies to turn the business over to him at a million dollar salary. The knowledge he claims to possess is too valuable to be bottled up.

The completed census of the United States shows a population of 93,462,161, not including the Philippine Islands or Canal Zone, estimated at 10,000,000 more. The increase for the past decade is 21 per cent.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

TO A YOUNG MAN.

Assert yourself. Self assertion is like the powder behind the charge in the gun. It is the dynamite that urges men into the places where they belong.

It is well enough to be modest and courteous belittles, but—Remember your two shoes have just as much right on the pavement as the two shoes of the millionaire.

It is not necessary or safe to push others off the thoroughfare, but take heed lest some one shove you aside, even when you are on the right side of the walk.

You may be courteous and tactful, but you must get out. Usually the crowd is good humored and gets out of the way of the man who keeps going. It says: "Here is a fellow who is bound somewhere, and he is in a hurry. Let us stand aside out of his way."

Sometimes the crowd is obstreperous and refuses to let you make a flying wedge of yourself with which to cleave it. Wait a bit. By and by the crowd will tire or forget and will let you by without a murmur.

Or—Should you, perforce, happen to be knocked down by the crowd, get up! Get up, brush the dust from your garments and do not complain of the rudeness of the pushers. Poor fellows! Like you, they are looking for their bread and butter. Smile and get up, and above all—Never fear the crowd.

Once it begins to cow you and you begin to shrink from its rough embraces you are a goner. If some assertive and successful fellow shows you aside and insults you by turning you down, why—Brush the insult off your vest. Never let it go as deep as your underclothing.

Doubtless the fellow who insulted you got like treatment many times when he was where you are now. Pull down your vest and go on! Never do not misunderstand. You are not looking for a fight. If so, you will be readily accommodated. You are merely conscious of your ability to do your share of the world's work, and you are going to stand by until they let you take hold.

You know your job will not hunt you. You must be the hunter. Therefore assert yourself. Face the situation. Let no man frighten you. And keep pushing.

I have a large Buff Cochin hen, I keep her in a muddy pen, and there she fusses all the day, and never takes the time to lay. In summer time, when eggs were cheap, that hen would lay eggs in her sleep; she would drop them all round the coop. I used to take those eggs of hers and throw them at the passing cars; for all the world was doubled with eggs; they fetched three cents per dozen eggs. But now that winter raves and groans, and eggs are scarce as precious stones, that silly hen just loaf all day, and doesn't earn her corn and hay. Some day, when worried by the strife that makes this journey we call life, with a deep conviction fraught that chicken pie would hit the spot, I'll kill that old hen. I'm afraid, and then she'll wish that she had laid. There's nothing worse, you'll all agree, than misdirected energy. The hen lays when eggs are cheap, and when they're dear lies down to sleep; the dog that barks when nothing's wrong, and sleeps when burglars come along; the man who tills on Sabbath day, and loafs the whole long week away—these from one's eyes the tears would draw; there surely ought to be a law.

No one thinks of "kicking" because he has to await his turn to be waited upon at the postoffice, railroad ticket office, dry goods stores, grocery or market, but many expect to be waited upon instantaneously when they use a telephone, no matter how many calls the operator has received ahead of theirs. They seem to think that for the 3 to 8 cents a day they pay for service, the company should maintain an operator for their exclusive use.

Think it over and be reasonable. Don't scold the operator. She is a very busy person engaged in a nerve racking business. Don't blame her if the party you want is not in the house or is slow in answering.

BOARD DISCUSSES TRAINING SCHOOL

PROS AND CONS OF PROPOSITION PRESENTED THIS AFTER-NOON.

ROCK COUNTY MAY HAVE ONE

Consensus of Opinion at Late Hour Was in Favor of Educating Teachers in Rock County Institution.

A lengthy discussion of the resolution regarding the establishment of a training school for teachers in Rock county, made a special order of business for two o'clock this afternoon from yesterday, occupied the attention of the members of the county board this afternoon and at three o'clock the debate was still in progress.

Simon Smith of Beloit started the talk-off, speaking in favor of the proposition, stating that he considered it a paying proposition if the cost to the county would not exceed $500, the sum which is now paid for the education of teachers in Green county.

Two thirds of the cost of maintenance is paid by the state. C. E. Moore also strongly advocated the establishment of the school, saying that the crying need of the rural schools is for trained teachers and it was the duty of the board to supply them.

John Tuller threw a bomb into the camp by announcing in his opinion the training school was not needed, but that better wages should be paid to attract young people to this vocation and secure good teachers. That the average wage of teachers was lower than in other vocations and should be made higher in order to secure the best instructors and compete with other lines of work and the inducements offered by the city schools.

L. E. Gottleb exception to Mr. Tuller's statements, advancing the view that teachers were not put under the law of supply and demand, but that too many requirements were made of them. The real blame, he said, was in the district system, which was wasteful.

County Superintendent of Schools O. D. Antkowiak was called upon by the board to present his ideas as to the need of a training school.

Purely routine work occupied the morning session of the board of supervisors today. The board met about seven o'clock, a few of the members being late in arriving on account of delayed trains.

Some discussion, however, arose over the resolution of Sup. P. W. Wilford that Bill 241, presented at the November meeting by Dr. Holm Ernest of Beloit, which was disallowed, be reconsidered. The bill was for the examination of a man as to his sanity in a trial in the Beloit municipal court.

The bill was thrown out at the previous gathering of the board on the claim that there was no court record in the matter. County superintendent of poor, George Seegmiller of Beloit, was called on to explain the question as to whether the municipal court had the right to appoint a physician for such an examination. Sup. Gottleb explained the legal phases of the matter and agreed with Sup. Smith that the court's action was not according to law.

Sup. Smith suggested that as it was generally considered all mandates of courts should be heeded, the bill should be paid by the court. The discussion was uncompleted when adjournment was taken at noon, after Sup. C. M. Smith's motion that the bill be allowed as "expert witness," was ruled out of order on the ground that the bill was not so presented.

The business of this morning's meeting began with the reports of the county commissioner of highways and Commissioner No. 6, who made a special order of business for tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock.

The report of Commissioner No. 12 on bills which had been received by the committee and were recommended for payment was read by Sup. Moore. Among the bills received and the amounts allowed were: George M. Appleby for officers' fees: $36.45 asked, $36.00 allowed; $117.00 asked, $117.35 allowed; $35.05 asked, $35.05 allowed; $4.80 asked and allowed.

John Comstock was allowed $19.77 for officer's fees, and W. E. Dunn was allowed $6.47 for a similar fee. For searching for a body in P. Nelson was allowed $1.50. Charles H. Lange was granted $2.03 for justice fees and for a post mortem Dr. Fred B. Welch was allowed $10.00. Former Sheriff R. G. Schellert will receive for officers' fees the sum of $29.84. The report was adopted.

C. E. Langworthy, one of the trustees of the county property at the county farm, addressed the board in favor of the erection of a cow-barn at the county farm. A resolution introduced by Sup. Wilford asked for the appropriation of $5,000 for this purpose and the matter was made a special order of business for tomorrow morning.

He recommended that a building to house 60 cows be erected and urged the board to take favorable action on the resolution. On motion of Sup. E. D. Cannon it was referred to the building committee to be reported on by them at two o'clock Friday afternoon.

A telephone will be installed in the office of the district attorney at the county's expense. A resolution to this effect with the provision that the county clerk be instructed to pay for it was ordered by Sup. C. E. Moore and adopted by the board.

The petition of Sup. C. J. Stoney for the improvement of a public highway in the town of Bradford was referred to Committee No. 6.

Yesterday's Work.
The report of former District Attorney John L. Fisher regarding Mrs. Henrietta Freitag was placed on file. Mrs. Freitag was a patient at the county asylum and her son had refused to pay for her board there. The county board had ordered the district attorney to start action against the son, but the son turned over the money, some $200, before the suit was commenced. This amount was turned over to the county clerk. Mr. Fisher expressed his gratefulness for courteous treatment accorded him by the board.

Committee No. 8 on licenses made its report on the amounts due and sums received from cities, towns and villages licensing saloons for the past year. The county receives $50 of the money paid for each license granted. The report gave the number of saloons, amounts due and receipts as follows: Janesville, 56, $2,800, paid $1,100; city of Beloit, 34, $1,700, paid $825; Edgerton, 7, $350, paid $150; Clinton village, 7, $350, paid $150; town of Janesville, 1, $50, paid $25. The business done from 1909 to the close of Beloit, Janesville and Edgerton have all been paid, Janesville paying for fifty-two, three more than was included in the report.

Sup. T. J. Hughes offered a resolution that a committee of three be appointed to confer with the district attorney as to the liability of villages for the payment of bridge tax and if advised certain villages are not liable the committee should report on the amount paid. The resolution was adopted after some discussion concerning whether towns without bridges should help pay for bridges in towns that are "over-bridged." Chairman J. A. Paul named Sup. Hughes, N. M. Gleason, and W. E. Shoemaker as the special committee.

That the sum of $4,500 be transferred from the general fund to the asylum fund and that the money collected for the board of Henrietta Freitag be turned over to the same fund was the resolution presented by Sup. B. D. Treadway. The resolution was adopted.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR AN INTERURBAN CAR

Front Trucks Torn Loose Near the River As Car Left Beloit This Morning.

The north bound interurban car leaving Beloit at 11 o'clock this morning was all but dashed into the river when the front trucks were torn loose just as the car struck the approach to the bridge at the northern limits of Beloit. Twenty passengers in the car were thrown from their seats and the car itself bounded into the air when the shock came. No persons were seriously injured, the motorman having one hand slightly hurt.

The accident was caused by the forward motor casing becoming loose underneath the car. It dropped down and slid on the rails for several hundred feet on upper Fourth street before causing trouble. When the double rails which guard the bridge were reached the casing was forced back against the trucks with a shock that tore the trucks from the car and came near overturning it.

Trucks were hindered for several hours, and all passengers between Beloit and Janesville had to be transferred at that point until the car was replaced on its tracks and drawn to the repair shops.

MRS. HARPER HAS LEFT JANESVILLE

Case Against Woman Arrested With Mabel Griffin and Martha Trippke Was Practically Dismissed.

On her own recognition and the agreement that she and her husband leave Janesville never to return, the case against Mrs. Lillian Harper, charged with allowing a girl under twenty-one years of age to resort in her house for illegal purposes, was adjourned to March 1 to be adjourned from time to time to insure against Mrs. Harper's return. The case came up before Judge C. L. Fildill in municipal court this morning, and on suggestion of District Attorney Stanley Dunwiddie and Attorney Charles Pierce who appeared for the defendant, this action was taken. The Harper's goods have been packed and the couple left town today to seek a home elsewhere. The cases against Mrs. Walker (nee Mabel Griffin) and Martha Trippke, who were arrested at the same time as Mrs. Harper, have been dropped, the former because of the marriage of the defendant, and the latter because Miss Trippke is to leave the city. This means disposal of the cases was decided on at a conference of former District Attorney John L. Fisher, during whose regime the trials were begun, District Attorney Stanley Dunwiddie, and Chief of Police George Appleby.

LOCAL COMPANY WON IN ITS CONTENTION
Caloric Company Succeeds in Obtaining Cut in Freight Rates On Its Products.

It was announced this morning in glowing headlines in a Chicago paper that Fireless cookers luxury no more, and then proceeded to recount the fact that the Illinois classification committee for the railroads had made a lower rating for this special article, inquiry at the Caloric company brings out the facts that for the past two years this company has been seeking a lower classification for their product and that the present action of the Illinois board was simply following out the decisions of other classification boards, notably that of the east, where the fireless cookers were placed in a second and fourth class and in the western, where they secured a second and third classification. Mr. Hodson has been working on this matter for some time past and out of the 433 cases taken up a year ago by the eastern board the claim of the Caloric company was one of three that any favorable action was taken on.

FIRST COTTON MILL BUILT CENTURY AGO
This Year Marks Hundredth Year Of Establishment Of Industry In Fall River, Mass.

Fall River, Mass., Jan. 5.—The present year marks the one hundredth anniversary of the beginning of cotton spinning in Fall River and a project is afoot for an appropriate celebration of the centennial. It was in 1811 that Col. Joseph Durfee promoted the first cotton mill in what is now Fall River, then the town of Troy. The original mill is standing, somewhat remodeled as the result of fire many years ago, and is now used as a storehouse.

Since the first Durfee mill was established, the people of Fall River have been liberal supporters of the industry, with the result that this city is now the greatest cotton manufacturing center in America. Within the limits of the city there are now forty corporations operating 3,900,000 spindles capitalized at about $40,000,000.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

SUCH a pretty sight as I saw yesterday. The little boy who lives across the way and his little sister were riding up and down the sidewalk on their velocipedes. There is a rough place where two sidewalks join. The little boy was ahead, having crossed this place, instead of merely calling out a warning to his little sister or more boylike whizzing on quite unheeding, he brought his steed to a standstill, gravely dismounted and guided his sister's velocipede across the unevenness with all the grace and gentle courtesy of a youthful Sir Walter Raleigh.

There is nothing pleasaner no more than to see a grown up brother and sister who are truly friends as those two will probably be. It seems to me that either stands well recommended for matrimony by such a friendship.

The girl whose little brother finds her good company, amusing and game, her husband will surely find a good comrade.

The big brother who is thoughtful and considerate of his little sister, when actuated by that greater impulse sex love, is apt to come mighty near being a model husband.

One of my correspondents asked me to write on this subject of the beauty of brother and sister friendship.

"I have in mind," he said, "a young man (25) of clean habits and good morals, who is devoted to his little sister (19), spending his earnings upon her as freely—more so—as he does upon other girls. When absent from her he writes always as often as twice a week. They have all their interests, private and otherwise, in common and are mutually helpful, one to the other. It is a pleasure to see them together."

I also know of one or two such friendships and I certainly agree with my friend that they are most pleasant to contemplate.

Only wish there were more of them.

Mother can help inaugurate such good feeling between brother and sister by teaching the boy to show courtesy and consideration and chivalry towards his little sister and the girl to take the same kind of interest in her big brother's affairs as she does in her other boy friends' activities; but the perpetuation of the friendship rests with the children themselves, of course.

I know there is a tang of unpleasant truth in the old saying, "God gave us our relatives. THANK God we can choose our friends," but truly it seems to me as if people might find more friends among their relatives than they usually do.

HOW ABOUT THE RAINY DAY?
Are you thinking about that rainy day that is pretty sure to come some time?—You have had success. Things have come pretty much as you wanted them to come. You have gone on from one good position to another, and each time have had an increase in salary. You are only continuing success before you and you feel secure, because you know the salary will come regularly each week.

Yes, but will it come regularly throughout the years that are before you? Are there no chances that your health may fall, that you may not always fit as well in your place as you do today, that the proprietorship of the concern may not change, that you may not lose your health or some physical ailment that will make it impossible for you to do further work?

All of these things have been known to happen to others and why not to you?

If you are in business for yourself how do you know that you may always retain your present popularity? Even popularity is known to fall sometimes, you know.

Every man owes it to himself, every woman owes it to herself, especially if she be a business woman, to lay aside a little every week out of the salary as nest egg to be used when "won't fall," or when health fails, or something else happens to stop the income.

A little money laid aside every week means ready money in time of need or when one wants to turn around for personal advantage.

But a little money aside as you can, and when you have a few hundred dollars, put it into real estate that will return something on the investment. Land is getting scarce and those who secure a few acres now will find it profitable for some time in the future.

But whatever you do, think about the rainy day. Don't worry about it.

but think about providing intelligently for it. Get ready in your golden years for the silver ones that must inevitably come so that when it comes time for you to slow up you can do so with dignity and in comfort. Don't think anyone else will take pleasure in providing the few necessities you will need when you are old, for they won't. No matter how good you may have been to them they will be chary of repaying the debt.

Milk and Its Care.
Until the consumer works with the producer to have pure milk there will be little accomplished, as unclean and carelessly-handled milk is often due entirely to the consumer. A dish that is not properly cleansed and scalded may hold bacteria enough to wipe out a whole family. Milk dishes should be first rinsed in warm water, then well washed and dried and sunned. The sun is a fine germ killer, even the tuberculous germ succumbs to old Sol's gentle power.

Typhoid, scarlet fever and diphtheria are disseminated by milk, as has been proven over and over again, and that boiled milk enjoys a much greater immunity from the chance of carrying disease is well known.

With a milkster with clean hands and clothes, a cow well brushed and the udder washed, a sterile pail to receive the milk, one has a fair chance to get pure milk.

Milk should be cooled quickly to keep the bacteria always present from becoming active, then if kept cold until wanted, the milk will be suitable to feed little children.

The custom of some mothers of keeping the milk warm all the time in a pan or pail of water cannot be too strongly condemned. The milk should be warmed only in the quantity the child requires at a feeding, and any left over should be thrown out, because of the rapid growth of bacteria in warm milk.

The animal that manufactures its life blood for us should be treated with respect and consideration.

Good food must be one of the first considerations, as milk cannot be made out of poor and insufficient food, then also must be treated with gentleness. A cow pounded over the back with the milking stool is not going to return to you a pail full of milk. Milk is manufactured while milking and the more quiet and calm you and the cow are the bigger the pail of milk, all things considered.

As a beverage, milk should be taken in a glass, as if drunk too rapidly the casein acted upon by the juices of the stomach become hard lumps and are so difficult of digestion.

THESE WOMEN FIGURE IN NEWS

Rose Pitano, Who Made Endurance Swim—New York Widow Runs Line of Tugboats—Servant's Life Is Only a Dog's Existence, Declares Mrs. Gans.

ROSE PITANO, by her feat of swimming from East Twenty-fourth street, New York, to Coney Island light has established her reputation as a swift and daring swimmer. Miss Pitano is only fifteen years old. The distance she swam was eighteen and a quarter miles, and she accomplished it in 5 hours and 8 minutes. This is the longest aquatic endurance test ever recorded in the east.

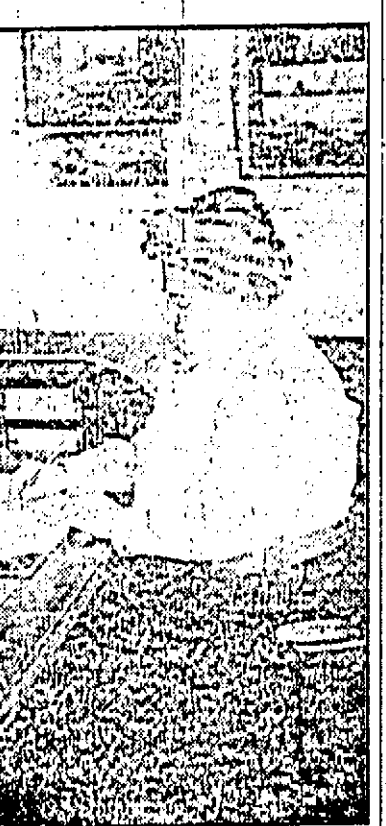

Miss Adeline Trapp and Mrs. Clara Bonton also made new records for themselves this year. Mrs. Bonton swam from Far Rockaway to Brighton Beach in an endurance contest for life savers, winning the race in 1 hour and 35 minutes. Both Miss Trapp and Mrs. Bonton are members of the volunteer life savers' corps.

Teaches Women by Mail How to Keep Tea Shops.

A New York woman, Caryl Bessel, has opened a correspondence school of a novel kind. It is to help women who wish to start tea shops and lunch rooms. Miss Bessel herself is the successful proprietress of a tea room in the old Astor stables, which she runs under the name of the "Tally-ho," and a roadhouse on Long Island for hunters and motorists.

A Woman Tugboat Owner.

Among the women who have well paying businesses must be counted Mrs. T. S. Sheridan, who owns a line of tugboats which operate in New York harbor. Mrs. Sheridan was left a widow early in life, and instead of allowing her husband's business to fall into the hands of strangers, she learned the details of it and now runs it very successfully.

An Authority on Domestic Science.

Mrs. Nellie Dilling Gans of Chicago, one of the best known cooking instructors in the country, says that the average servant leads a dog's life.

"Worthy Americans give insults thought to the care of their dogs and horses, but little, if any, thought to the comfort of their servants," said

Mrs. Gans recently. "The shopgirl gets $5 and $6 a week and pays for her board and clothing out of this. Housemaids in Chicago get $7 to $9 a week easily, with their board, but girls prefer to work where they may enjoy their freedom after their day's work is done. I don't blame them."

"The reason the servant girl question is so difficult to settle is this: It has been such a short time since many American housewives were servants themselves that they try to forget this fact as quickly as possible; likewise the servant and the servant's comfort."

"The only way, to my mind, to bring about an ideal condition of housekeeping in this country is to start every boy and girl on a course of cooking instruction in the public schools in their first year and keep giving them this instruction until they leave school."

"A model kitchen should contain a perfect pair of knives, a clock and a rocking chair for the servant. While a servant is making a salad and doing lots of other things she could just as well be seated and get ten or fifteen minutes' rest."

Monster Suction Hose.
What is said to be the largest rubber suction hose ever made was recently made for a Philadelphia dredging firm to be used in a deep water operation about to be undertaken. The outside diameter of this hose is 32 inches, while inside it measures 29. The 1,200-pound spiral spring which comprises the foundation of the hose was rolled cold from a rod one inch in diameter. The rubber and fabric entering into its construction weighed 3,216 pounds. The rubber and duck were applied in alternative layers with coating of gum, after which the entire piece was placed in a container and vulcanized with live steam.

"Yep, Jeff has gone into bankruptcy," says the first truck raiser.

"Don't say how he could," says the second.

"That's so. But Jeff got religion just as cantaloupes was getting ripe."

Invitations to Children's Parties.
Good form requires that all invitations of both girls and boys shall be issued in the names of their parents or of one of the guardians with whom they live. The very obvious reason for this is that all one of the minors give invitations it might be done without the knowledge of elders.

Rarely do birthday parties need invitations other than formal notes to be written by the mother. It is not to parents of the others that the communications are addressed, but to the young people themselves, in notes something after this fashion:

My Dear Mary—Will you not give Ann and me the pleasure of your presence at a birthday party we are giving for her on Thursday, the 25th? We are asking some of her young friends to be here about 8 o'clock and hope you will be among them.

Chronic Diseases Successfully Treated.

The doctor has such wonderful success in the treatment of certain diseases that he feels fully warranted in making the following liberal offer:

He will make a thorough examination and tell you just what can be done what the treatment will cost and about how long it will take to effect a cure.

Dr. Schallenberger wants every person who suffers from a chronic disease—it makes no difference how bad their case is, or how long they have suffered, or who has treated them and pronounced them incurable, to call and consult him. He will make a thorough examination of their case, tell exactly what can be done, whether they are curable or not, how long it will require and all about it. He treats: Chronic Stomach Trouble, Liver Disease, Constipation, Rheumatism, Bladder Trouble, Diseases of the Kidneys, Chronic Catarrh in all its forms, Heart and Nerve Trouble, Diseases of women a specialty.

Dr. Schallenberger has a system of treatment which he believes is the best known for chronic diseases. He is able to cure many cases that have resisted other treatments—that are considered incurable. He wants it distinctly understood that he does not undertake any case that he thinks is incurable, and will tell the patient candidly when he has made the examination.

CHAPTER VI.

Tom's Confession.
At intervals during the day those enigmatical words of Mr. Farnshaw's recurred to the girl with the reflection that they wanted serious thinking over, at the first convenient opportunity. But the day wore away and the opportunity did not appear.

The captain of the yacht—his name was Warner—was on shore in command of the searching party, but the first officer, Mr. Seales, remained on board. He was in possession of all the data, though they had not told him the story of Philip Cayley's old relation with the murdered man.

"It stands to reason," he said, "that the only party of white men that could be here would be the survivors of the Fielding expedition. We know from the news that young Mr. Farnshaw brought aboard that there is one such survivor here. If there were any considerable number of them left, able-bodied enough to walk across the glacier, we could be sure they'd be here on the shore waiting for us. We could be certain they would have made some attempt to signal us as soon as they sighted us."

"If they weren't white men but Indians—Chucotes—they'd have been quite as glad as white men to get a chance to go back with us as far as St. Michaels. And in the third place, if they were not Chucotes, but some strange, unknown, murderous band of aborigines, there wouldn't have been even one survivor of the Fielding expedition."

"Of course that's not an absolute water-tight line of reasoning, but it seems to me there is a tremendous probability that it's right, and that this flying man has lost his wits."

By four o'clock they had decided that, whether or not the sky-man's story might be true, it was high time to send a relief party ashore to find the lost ones.

At five o'clock accordingly, the relief expedition went ashore, and Tom Farnshaw and the girl were left alone on the yacht.

Two hours later, perhaps, after they had eaten the supper which Jeanne had concocted in the galley, they sat, side by side, in their comfortable deck chairs, gazing out across the ice-lands. The evening was unusually mild, the thermometer showing only a degree or two below freezing, and here in the lee of the deckhouse they hardly needed their furs.

They had sat there in silence a long while. Tom's promise that they would keep a brisk lookout against a possible attack on the yacht, had passed utterly from both their minds. It was so still—no dead still; the world about them was so utterly empty as to make any thought of such an attack seem preposterous.

Finally the girl seemed to rouse herself from the train of thought that had preoccupied her mind, straightened up a little and turned for a look into her companion's face. But this little movement of her body failed to rouse him. His eyes did not turn to meet hers, but remained fixed on the far horizon.

A moment later she stretched out a hand and explored for his beneath the great white bear skin that covered him, found it and interlocked her fingers with his. At that, he pulled himself up, with a start, and abruptly withdrew his own from the contact.

She colored a little, and her brows knitted in perplexity. "What an odd bear you are, Tom," she said, "What's the matter today? It's not a bit like you to talk just because we disagree about something. We disagree all the time, but you've never been like this to me before."

"I always told you I was a sullen brute when things went wrong with me, although you never would believe it," he said, "I'm sorry."

"I don't want you to be sorry," she told him; "I just want you to be a few shades more cheerful."

He seemed not to be able to give her what she wished, however, for he lapsed again into his moody abstraction. But after a few minutes more of silence, he turned upon her with a question that astonished her. "What did you do that for, just now?"

ing at him in puzzled curiosity for a moment.

He nodded.
"Why—because I was feeling a little lonesome, I suppose, and sort of tenderhearted, and we'd been about half quarrelling all day, and I didn't feel quarrelsome any more, and I thought my big brother's hand would feel—well—grateful and comforting, you know."

She was curious as to why he wanted the explanation, but she gave it to him unhesitatingly, without the faintest touch of coquetry or embarrassment.

"I can't remember back to the time," she continued, "when I didn't do things like that to you, just as you did to me, and neither of us ever wanted an explanation before. Are you trying to make up your mind to disown me, or something?"

He leaned back moodily into his chair without answering her.

After a little perplexed silence, she spoke again. "I didn't know things were going wrong with you. I didn't even suspect it until this morning, when Uncle Jerry said—"

"What?" Tom interrupted. "What does the governor know about it? What did he say?"

"Why, nothing, but that you were playing in rather bad luck, he thought, and that I was to be nice to you. Is the world going badly—really badly—really badly?"

"Yes," that curt monosyllable was evidently all the answer he meant to make. At that she gave up all attempt to console him, dropped back in her chair and cuddled a little deeper or down under her bear skin, her face, three-quarters away from him, turned toward that part of the sky that was already becoming glorious with the tints of sunset.

"You've never had any doubt at all, have you, that I really deserved the job of being your big brother; that I was that quite as genuinely as if I had been born that way?"

"No," she said; "of course not, Tom, dear. What put such an idea into your head?"

He paled a little, and it was a minute or two before he could command the words he wanted, to his lips, "Because of my hopes, I suppose," he said unsteadily; "because I had hoped, absurdly enough, for the other answer. You asked as a joke a while back if I meant to disown you. Well, I do, from that relationship—because, I'm not fit for the job; because—because—I've come to love you in the other way."

She looked at him in perfectly blank astonishment. He would not meet her eyes, his own, their pupils almost parallel, gazed out, unseeing, beyond her.

Slowly her color mounted until she felt her whole face burning. "I didn't know," she said, "You shouldn't have let me go on thinking—"

"I didn't know myself until today," he interrupted her stormily; "I didn't know I knew, that is. But when I saw you put your hands on that villain Cayley, I wanted to kill him, and in that same flash I knew why I wanted to."

Turning suddenly to look at her, he saw that she had buried her face in her hands and was crying furiously. "Oh, I am a brute," he concluded, "to have told you about it in this way."

"What does the way matter? That's not what makes it hard. It's loving you so much, the way I do, and having to hurt you. It's having to love my brother—the only brother I ever had."

There was a long, miserable silence after that. Finally he said: "Jeanne, if you do love me as much as that—the way you do, not the way I love you, but love me any way—could you—could you—marry me just the same? I'd never have any thought in the world but of making you happy. And I'd always be there; you could count on me, you know."

"Don't!" she interrupted curtly. "Don't talk like that, Tom." She shivered, and drew away from him with a little movement somewhere near akin to disgust.

WOMAN TELLS STORY OF INTENSE SUFFERING

At the age of about 40 years, I was attacked with hemorrhages of the kidneys or bladder which continued for several years without a check. I finally took advantage of your generous offer and procured a sample bottle of Swamproot. Believing it helped me, I purchased a fifty-cent bottle, which convinced me that it was helping me. Three other bottles cured me. In two or three years overwork brought my ailment back, but one bottle stopped it.

I feel as if I owe my life to you for the great blessing Dr. Kilmer's Swamproot has been to me. I recommend it to all men being suffering as I was. You have my permission to publish this letter and if any person doubts it, if they will write me, enclosing stamp, I will give full particulars. Yours very truly,

MRS. F. J. PHILLIPS, Rocky, Ark.
Personally appeared before me this 31st day of August, 1909, Mrs. F. J. Phillips, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

"He winced at it, and reddened. Then, in a voice that sounded curious, by thick to her, curiously unlike his own, he asked a question: 'If I had told you all this a month ago—told you how I felt toward you, and asked you, loving me the way you do, to marry me just the same, would you?' Oh, I suppose you would have refused. But would you have shuddered and shrunk away from me—like that?"

"Did I shudder and shrink away?" she asked. "I didn't know it. I wasn't angry; I'm not now. But—that was a terrible thing you asked of me."

"Would it have struck you as horrible," he persisted, "if I had asked it a month ago?"

"Perhaps not," she answered thoughtfully. "I've changed a good deal in the last month—since we sailed away from San Francisco and left the world behind us—our world—and came out into this great white empty one. I don't know why that is."

"I know," he was speaking with a sort of brutal intensity that startled her. "I know. It's not in the last month you've changed; it's within the last 24 hours; it's since you saw and fell in love with that murderous lying brute of a Cayley."

"I don't know," she said very quietly, "whether you're trying to kill the love I have for you—the old love—or not, Tom, but unless you're very careful, you'll succeed in doing it. I don't think I want to talk to you any more now, not even all here beside me. I'm going to take a little walk."

He held himself rigidly until till she had disappeared round the end of the deckhouse. Then he bent over and buried his face in his hands.

What the thing was that roused him to his present surroundings he never knew. He was conscious of no sound, but suddenly he sat erect and stared about him in amazement. It had grown quite dark. It must be two or three hours since Jeanne had left the chair beside him and announced that she was going to take a little walk.

He spoke her name, not loudly at first, for he thought she must be close by. But the infinite silent spaces seemed to absorb the sound of his voice. There was no sign that any sentient thing, except his very self, had heard the words he uttered. Then he called longer.

The steps were rather difficult to negotiate, but by using both hands to supplement his one good foot, he succeeded in creeping down them, and then in making his way along the corridor to the girl's door.

He knocked faintly at first; then louder, and finally cried out her name again, this time in genuine alarm. He tried the door, found that it was not locked, and opening it and switching on a light, perceived that the stateroom was empty.

He heard footsteps crossing the deck overhead. No, that could not be Jeanne; it was a heavy tread, a curious, shuffling tread.

He closed the door behind him. Then he limped slowly down the corridor toward the foot of the companionway. The heavy tread was already descending the stairs.

He turned the corner, stopped short and gasped. And that was all. There was no time even for a cry. He had caught one glimpse of a monstrous figure clad in skins, huge in bulk, hairy-faced like a gorilla.

And then, the man or beast had, with beatlike quickness, lifted his arm and struck. And Tom Farnshaw dropped down at his feet, senseless.

RECLAMATION OF ARID LANDS

President Sends Special Message on Subject.

$20,000,000 FOR PROJECTS

Board of Army Engineers Recommends This Sum and It Is Approved by the President—Urges Further Legislation.

Washington, Jan. 5.—President Taft sent a message to congress today relating to the reclamation of arid lands. He refers to the act which provides for a reclamation fund to be created from the sale of public lands which amounted on June 30, 1910, to $55,715,170 of which $22,945,441 had been expended on thirty-two projects in the arid land states of the west. The government was ready on June 30, to extend water to 876,884 acres of land. The total amount to be reclaimed under the projects is 3,100,000 acres.

The president says that the receipts for the irrigation fund, amounting to between six and seven million dollars annually, was insufficient for the completion of existing projects with sufficient expedition and congress authorized issuance of certificates to the amount of $20,000,000 to be used in completing projects, but that no portion could be expended upon them until examined and reported upon by a board of army engineers and approved as feasible and practicable.

After examination the board recommended the allotment of the twenty million dollars to the following projects in the amounts given:

Salt River, Arizona $ 495,000
Grand Valley, Colorado 1,000,000
Yuma, Arizona and Calif. 1,200,000
Uncompahgre, Colorado 1,500,000
Payette-Boise, Idaho 2,000,000
Milk River, Montana 1,000,000
North Platte, Wyoming and Nebraska 2,000,000
Truckee-Carson, Nevada 1,192,000
Rio Grand, New Mexico 4,500,000
Texas and Mexico 3,500,000
Umatilla, Oregon 250,000
Klamath, Oregon and Calif. 600,000
Sanberry Valley, Utah 2,572,000
Bunytsdelo, Yakima, Wash. 1,250,000
Teton, Yakima, Wash. 665,000

The board also recommends that the following amounts be expended during the years 1911-1914, inclusive, out of the general reclamation fund upon the projects named, amounting to $25,251,897:

Yuma $2,380,462
Grand Valley 500,000
Uncompahgre 2,065,000
Mindoka 528,000
Payette-Boise 455,425
Huntley 110,000
Milk River 2,050,000
Sun River 2,278,000
Lower Yellowstone 576,000
North Platte 2,165,000
Truckee-Carson 1,594,000
Rio Grande 1,855,000
Missouri, Pumping 270,000
Belle Fourche 480,000
Shoshone 18,000
Shoshone 2,000,000

No allotments are recommended for Orland, Cal., Garden City, Kan., Kit-titas, Waputa and Benton, Wash., Carlsbad and Honda, New Mex. With regard to the Yakima project, the board recommends a general system or storage reservoirs, providing congress authorizes the sale of the excess of stored water so that a return of the cost of building the reservoirs will be secured.

The report of the board was approved by the president but the president urges further legislation, saying: "I earnestly recommend the enactment of a law which will permit of the disposition of any surplus stored water available for reclamation projects to persons, associations, or corporations operating systems for the delivery of water to individual water users for the irrigation of arid lands and the enactment of legislation which will give executive authority for the modification of conditions of payments for water rights on certain of the projects where, by reason of local conditions, the return of the cost of the project to the reclamation fund will not be secured unless settlers are permitted to make payments on terms or conditions other than those specified in the public notices heretofore issued."

The president closes with the statement that with funds now at the disposal of the government, and the additional legislation it is hoped will upon the projects may proceed early and settlers will soon be able to return to the treasury the amount expended in construction of the projects.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite, and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a pint bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pinex is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Nut-ray white pine extract, and is rich in galeol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Something New For Coughs.

Make It Yourself.

Until the discovery of the wonder-ful new drug product, Menthol-Laxene everybody had to rely on ordinary cough mixtures, usually composed of morphine, opium and the like; but now the most effective and popular cough syrup is made at home with essence menthol-laxene. Here is the formula:

Essence menthol-laxene 2½ Ozs.
Granulated sugar syrup 13½ Ozs.

Buy of your druggist, or have him order it from the wholesaler, and mix one-half ounces of essence menthol-laxene; empty it into a pint bottle and fill up the bottle with granulated sugar syrup. To make the syrup, use a pint of sugar and a half pint of boiling water, stir it, let cool and mix it with the menthol-laxene.

This makes a fine curative laxative cough syrup superior to anything you can buy at four times the price. Take in teaspoonful doses 8 to 10 times daily. It loosens the tightest cough in an hour, and is fine for old people and for children for they like to take it, and by its tonic, cleansing, healing and laxative properties it prevents pneumonia, lung fever, and other complications of colds.

There is no cure too bad for it to overcome.

The Janesville Gazette, Jan. 5, 1871.—Jottings.—Mr. Edward Rucker, the county surveyor, has just finished the work of fixing permanent landmarks for the towns of Harmony and Union. This is done by placing posts of Juliet stone at the intersection of the section lines, with the number of the section cut on the corresponding face of the post. Posts for quarter and moander lines are also set at the proper points and marked to designate their character. These landmarks are invaluable in preserving the lines of the original survey and should be adopted at once by every town in the state.
